DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claim now recites the number of dimples with a contour length greater than or equal to 11.6 is 77% or more. The specification supports 77% and 93% but nothing between or higher.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Satoshi et al (JP 10-248958) in view of Yokota et al (5,776,013). Regarding claims 1 and 8, Satoshi discloses a golf ball comprising a core and a cover. The hardness of the cover layer between 58 and 72 is an obvious feature since Satoshi discloses identical ionomers for the cover materials, Himilan 1557, 1605, 1652, 1705, 1706, 1707, 18855, 1856 and Iotek 7010, 8000. The golf ball has a diameter of 42.7 mm (para 28).

Regarding claim 2, the core has a deformation from 2.5 to 4.5 mm with an initial load of 10 kgf and a final load of 130 kgf. Regarding claims 3 and 4, the core layer comprises a 100 parts of a polybutadiene rubber, 15-45 parts by weight of zinc acrylate, 0.2 to 5 parts by weight of an organic peroxide, and 0.05 to 3 parts by weight of an organic disulfide compound. Satoshi discloses dimples on the golf ball but does not disclose at least 50% of the dimple having a contour length greater than 11.6. Applicant defines the contour length (x) as the diameter of the dimple (D) multiplied by π . Solving for D gives a diameter of at least 3.69 mm to provide a contour length of at least 11.6 mm. Table 4 of Yokota teaches a golf ball wherein 83% of the dimples have a contour length greater than 11.6 mm, kind B. Regarding claims 9 and 10, Yokota teaches from 330 to 440 dimples; table 4, kind B shows 360 dimples. Regarding claims 1, 5, 6 and 7, the golf ball compressive deformation, initial velocity, and total distance of the golf ball are obvious features of Satoshi in view of Yokota since the material make up is the same for each layer as shown by Satoshi and the dimple dimensions are shown by Yokota. One skilled in the art would have modified Satoshi in view of Yokota for enhanced flight characteristics.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
